

Department for Culture
Media & Sport

Minister of State for Digital and Culture
4th Floor
100 Parliament Street
London SW1A 2BQ

www.gov.uk/dcms
enquiries@culture.gov.uk

Rt Hon George Howarth MP
House of Commons
London
SW1A 0AA
george.howarth.mp@parliament.uk

15 November 2016

Our ref: 292776/MH

Dear George,

Thank you for your letter of 19 October, to the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport, the Rt Hon Karen Bradley MP, on behalf of a number of your constituents, regarding the Leveson Inquiry and sharing their views on section 40 of the Crime and Courts Act. I am replying as the Minister responsible for this policy area.

A free press is an essential part of a successful democracy. I am a strong defender of the hard-won liberties and operation of a free press. As we set out in our Manifesto, these freedoms should be cherished. Yet the press also has significant power that must be exercised responsibly.

There is a great deal of feeling on both sides of this debate. The Government considers that a consultation is needed to look at two issues: commencement of section 40 of the Crime and Courts Act 2013; and Part 2 of the Leveson Inquiry. The consultation runs until 10 January 2017 and can be found here:

<https://www.gov.uk/government/consultations/consultation-on-the-leveson-inquiry-and-its-implementation>

We want to take evidence on the likely impact of each of these, and are grateful for your constituent's views. We need to consider whether or not commencement of section 40 or Leveson Part 2 is in the public interest.

This consultation seeks to better understand the different views being offered and help ensure the Government is engaging with the widest possible audience as we consider next steps. I look forward to your constituent's engagement with the consultation, so that we might get to the best possible outcome.

Yours ever

The Rt Hon Matt Hancock MP
Minister of State for Digital and Culture

